

CAPITOL SECURITY PROTOCOLS

Security at the Capitol

The Colorado State Patrol is responsible for the safety and security for all persons and buildings within the Capitol Complex. Security measures are in place to protect all employees, visitors and elected officials. Those who visit the Capitol building will be subject to controlled security measures and screening before entering the Capitol. There are two public entrance and exit points provided for your convenience. The main entrance and exit is located on the north side of the Capitol, first floor, near Colfax Ave. The second entrance and exit is located on the south side of the Capitol, basement door; near 14th St.

These security measures will include, but are not limited to:

- Putting personal items in a bin to be passed through an x-ray machine
- Passing through a metal detector
- X-ray and visual examination of all packages
- Packages and or bags subject to physical search

The security protocols are designed to ensure the safety of all the employees and visitors to the Capitol. When passing through the metal detectors, items that are metal (change, keys, etc.), and cell phones should be placed in one of the provided bins. Adults and/or children with special needs and/or medical devices will be assisted through the security process by a security guard or trooper.

If there is a question regarding an object that is not clearly visible in the x-ray machine a physical search of the item will be conducted until the item is identified. Any person found in violation of the Capitol screening process will be detained for questioning. Any person who is in unlawful possession of a weapon will have the weapon confiscated.
